BACKGROUND AND EXPERIENCE

Todd R. Kolls is a seasoned commercial real estate professional with strong ties to the San Angelo business community. Raised in San Angelo, he graduated from San Angelo Central High School in 1998 and attended Angelo State University. Todd has a deep understanding of the city's history and its ongoing business development. For more than 15 years, he and his wife have built and sustained a thriving business together.

Todd has made significant contributions to the city's growth through his involvement in numerous local organizations and committees. He served for five years on the City of San Angelo Development Corporation, including a two-year term as president. He is currently an active member of the San Angelo Stock Show and Rodeo Association Board of Directors, Chairman of the San Angelo Stock Show Premium Sale Committee, a member of the National Prayer Breakfast, and the City of San Angelo Water Advisory Board. He has also served on several other boards, including Helping Hands, the YMCA, the Better Business Bureau, and the Angelo Civic Theatre.

ABOUT TODD

Beyond his professional and community work, Todd was a member of the I-14 and I-27 Coalition and served as a deacon at Southland Baptist Church, underscoring his commitment to faith and community service. His leadership and dedication continue to have a lasting impact on San Angelo.

In his personal life, Todd enjoys spending time with his family, managing a family ranch with childhood friends, and indulging in his passions for hunting, fishing, and golf. A devoted coach, Todd spent over a decade coaching baseball for his sons, sharing his love for the sport with the next generation.

With a strong sense of community and a relentless drive to serve, Todd Kolls remains a pillar of both San Angelo's business landscape and its local culture.
